

SCOTIA GRENDEL PRODUCTIONS

Scotia News for March

Welcome to the first Scotia Grendel newsletter! Yes, it has been a long time coming, but we've finally got round to it. Writing this is quite a scary experience, so this initial offering is going to be carefully reviewed, to make sure we've not made any terrible mistakes, and will be followed up towards the end of the month with another missive to ensure we have overcome any problems that arise. After that, we intend to send newsletters out on a monthly basis, offering an assortment of insights and previews of upcoming releases/events that we won't share with anyone other than our subscribers. So, without further ado, on with the show!

Flavour of the Month

Void is very much on our minds this month, with the addition of a Void 1.1 board on our forum, which has already sparked off some interesting debate and questions.

So, it's only natural and fitting that we mark the Void renaissance with a batch of releases/re-releases for the system. Check out the new Koralon models in the images on the right (due for release towards the end of March). Also up for release this month are VASA suppressors, which should be ready to order by the time you read this.

Prices will be as follows:

Suppressors with Baton (pack of 3) £6.00
Suppressors with Assault Rifles (pack of 3) £6.00
Suppressors with Grenade Launchers (pack of 2) £4.00
Suppressor Snipers (pack of 2) £4.00
Suppressor Sergeant with Baton (pack of 1) £2.50
Suppressor Sergeant with Assault Rifle (pack of 1) £2.50

The Small World

This has been a very sci-fi themed newsletter, but we don't want to leave out fans of Micro Armour. So rest assured, there are a few little gems on the horizon for you, including some very nice new WWII infantry (Robbie now has to consider the best way to mould the infantry to best preserve their detail. Because believe me, they are not short in that department!). We will redress the balance toward historical content in our next communication, with some details and pictures of the forthcoming releases for the Scotia Micro Armour range.
